BOWEN-JOYCE

The marriage took place at Hillcrest on Wednesday, August 19th, of Miss Maida Bowen to James Joyce, both of Coleman. Rev. John Wood officiating.

Both are well known in the district. James is one of the stars of the Coleman Canadians hockey team, and has lived with his parents in Coleman for a number of years. The bride has also lived in Coleman for quite a while, but comes from Pincher Creek.

RONALD COLMAN TRIUMPHS IN DICKENS' ROLE

With Ronald Colman at the head of an amazing list of stars and featured players, one of the great photoplays of all time opened yesterday at Cole's theatre, Bellevue. It is "A Tale of Two Cities," from Charles Dickens' novel.

The picture takes its place with the few great immortal photoplays of history, from which time is dated in screen annals. It is magnificent entertainment.

Yet with a deftness that is almost inspired, the producers have not permitted the spectacular aspects to overshadow the human elements that make the picture truly great.

In the midst of pomp and tumult, the camera follows faithfully the group of men and women whose lives are vitally affected by the events of world importance taking place around them, and through the pattern of vastness are woven the threads of tender romance, high adventure and glorious sacrifice.

Probably there are few unfamiliar with the general plot of Dickens' story. It has stood for almost a hundred years as a masterpiece of fictional entertainment. Yet it is likely that Dickens himself could not more faithfully have brought the characters to vivid life.

Frank H. Holmes, of Beaver Mines has been appointed to succeed H. B. Macleod, of High River, as farmers' representative on the board of review under the Farmers' Creditors Arrangements Act. The registrar is now Harold Millican, of Calgary, replacing H. A. Allison.

BELLEVUE FLOWER SHOW

The big event of the coming week will be the annual exhibition and sports of the Bellevue and District Horticultural, Industrial and Poultry Society, to be held at the Bellevue Arena and sports grounds on Monday next.

Bellevue has been favored with general conditions the best since the inception of the society, and this year promises an exhibition that will in every way outstrip any previous event.

Monday forenoon will be devoted to the placing of exhibits, the entire arena being necessary for the big show. During the afternoon it is expected the largest attendance of spectators will be viewing the great array.

During the afternoon also the sports field will attract large numbers, where general field events, including foot races, jumps, etc., will be carried out.

At night the grand climax will again take the form of a dance in the I.O.O.F. hall.

In a word, all roads will lead to Bellevue on Monday next.

COLEMAN TENNIS PLAYERS DEFEAT LETHBRIDGE SQUAD

The sparkling play of three of the men who made the Southern Alberta singles tennis semi-finals an all-Coleman event last month, made it possible for the Coleman tennis club to carry off all the matches played against the Lethbridge tennis club on Sunday at the local courts. Balloch, Shone and Jenkins, aided by the veteran Lindoe, Miss Bell and Mrs. Lindoe, took eleven matches from the city racketeers with the loss of but one set.

The visitors won the following matches: Jenkins - C. Donaldson 6-0, 6-3; Shone-Kessler, 6-3, 6-1; Balloch-Elia, 6-0, 6-0; Shone and Jenkins-Elia and Kessler, 5-7, 7-5, 6-4; Lindoe and Balloch-Richards and Studer, 6-2, 6-3; Bell and Balloch-Hamilton and Roberts, 6-3; Lindoe and Balloch-Burnard and Richards, 6-3, 6-1; Bell and Lindoe-Hamilton and White, 6-3, 6-2; Bell and Lindoe-Burnard and Hamilton, 6-1; Lindoe-Scott, 6-2, 6-3; Bell-J. Hamilton, 6-3.—Lethbridge Herald.

LEITCH BROTHERS HERE REMINISCENT OF OLD DAYS

It was reminiscent of pioneer days in Cranbrook this week to see George and Archie Leitch in town together. George had come up from Vancouver to spend a few days, and while here Archie dropped in from Calgary on his return to his home at the coast. During rail construction and for several years following, the Leitch family was probably the most prominent in this part of the district. The father of these brothers ran the first sawmill and the lumber for most of the older buildings in Cranbrook was cut at his mill. Out of this venture grew the East Kootenay Lumber company, which prospered for many years.

In these enterprises young Archie and George, as they were then known, took an active part. Archie Leitch, and his wife and their sons and daughters all fitted in to the scheme of things in these early days. The mother and the girls were active heads in church and social work, and the father and the boys were not only good business heads, but fine sports as well. They were equally enthusiastic whether it was assisting some down-and-out, or putting over a grand ball in aid of the hospital or backing a horse race or a prizefight. The Leitch family was quite a large one, and will always be remembered by the old timers as a grand family. They played the game of life as they found it, and played it on the square—Cranbrook Courier.

The Frank school reopened on Monday with Miss McKay as principal, and Misses Murdoch and McNeill.

Out of a total of six entries at the Bellevue flower show on Monday, W. H. Chappell, junior, secured four first prizes and one third.

The evening service at the Central Union church on Sunday next will take the form of a memorial service for the late Private Mark H. Harrison. The service will be under the auspices of the Oddfellows' lodge.

Miss Maggie Kemp has resumed her duties at the post office, after a holiday spent in Calgary.

The duck shooting season opened on Monday morning, and so far every thing seems to favor the ducks.

Jack McPhail accompanied Olson's dreadnought to Calgary last week. The ship managed to weather the storms and her crew proved good seamen. All along the trip fortifications were encountered, but only at Okotoks did they manage to get a "shot."

An old maid's home, or rather a home for incurables, is being established in west Blaimore by the coal company, where office girls, teachers, nurses, telephone employees, etc., who are considered past recovery as far as match-making is concerned, will be assured of proper care. Barbed-wire entanglements will be erected around the premises.

A daughter has arrived to Inspector and Mrs. I. Junget.

Sept. 13.—Following were principal prize winners at the Bellevue flower show last week: Jim Allison, 15; Jim Lindsay, 10; W. H. Chappell, sr.; George McKean, 7; Andrew Goodwin, 6; Albert Hallworth, 6; Karl Wolney, 5; Fred Henson, 5; T. Jenner, 5; W. H. Chappell, jr., 5; Rev. H. Peters, 4; G. Christie, 3.

Dr. E. H. Gray has accepted a medical practice at Keremeos, B.C.

The United States has placed a ban on the manufacture or sale of beer.

Misses Harrison and Kafoury are hunting big game with a .22 rifle near Grassy Mountain.

Joseph Pisony, of the Chapel Rock district, passed away on Wednesday following a brief illness. The remains have been moved to Blaimore, where interment will be made Saturday forenoon, following funeral mass at St. Anne's church. Mr. Pisony was a former resident of Frank, and an old timer of the district.

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER

FROM EDMONTON

(By T. B. Windross)

Edmonton, Alta., Aug. 31.—The special session of the legislature has lasted one week and is likely to go two days of another, despite the efforts of the government to have the work of the house expedited so as to finish in the shortest possible period. The house adjourned Friday afternoon to meet Monday afternoon and proceeded with the more important legislation remaining to be put through.

The highlight of the session came Thursday when the new Social Credit bill, titled: "An act to provide the people of Alberta with additional credit," was introduced by Hon. E. C. Manning, minister of trade and industry.

This bill authorizes the establishment of the Alberta Credit House, through which the basic dividends will be paid. It is the fulfillment of one of the principal promises made by Premier Aberhart before the election, and is practically the final step to be taken when registration of citizens is complete.

It is a comprehensive bill covering all the details of the government's Social Credit scheme as far as the machinery for paying basic dividends is concerned. In brief it is the machine for making the payments. Its many features are too numerous to state fully here.

The act provides for the establishment of the credit house, its superintendent and officials with headquarters in Edmonton, the validity of registrations, conditions for receiving dividends, the persons entitled to dividends, free loans and compensating discounts to retailers selling below the price outside the province, and it provides for penalties for default in repaying loans as well as regulations governing continuance of the dividend to individuals.

The Social Credit bill passed through the house with very little criticism from opposition benches, although the debate on the speech from the throne was marked by fireworks and cross-firing among the members on both sides of Mr. Speaker.

S. A. G. Barnes gave a statement in justification of his recent criticism of Premier Aberhart, but it was a mild and very unimpressive one, considering how he had promised to turn to full charges of his heavy artillery onto the government before the house session opened. His chief complaint was that the premier acted "like a dictator," and that he objected to being told what he should do as a member "over the radio."

The second important measure came before the legislature on Monday this week, when Hon. W. J. Huggill, attorney-general introduced the amendments to the Debt Adjustment Act, bringing the provisions of the act to bear on debts contracted since 1932 and up to 1935, as well as its original provision for debts previous to 1932. The most radical feature of this bill is its drastic reduction of interest rates to five per cent with all paid over that rate to apply on the principal of debts contracted before 1932.

Protests were heard from representatives of mortgage companies and financial houses, and a delegation representing these interests waited on the members of the cabinet to place their views before the government but they made no progress against the administration's determination to provide some relief of a substantial nature for the overburdened debtors. Premier Aberhart made it clear that the interests of finance came second to those of the heavily burdened people who have to pay the bulk of the taxes and carry the bulk of the debt burdens of the province.

FORMER ALBERTAN GAINS PROMOTION

Montreal, Sept. 2.—Prominent as an athlete during his residence in Alberta, J. A. McAllister, graduate of the University of Alberta, and for several years following 1924 agent of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada in Edmonton, has been appointed superintendent in the Canadian field for the company, succeeding

W. S. Penny, promoted to the new post of director of agencies.

Mr. McAllister was a leading representative of the Edmonton branch for a number of years until his appointment as unit manager in 1926.

A year later he was transferred to the head office as secretary of Canadian agencies, and some time later was a pointed inspector of Canadian agencies.

Twenty-six applications for naturalization were considered by Judge A. M. Macdonald at Drumheller this week.

Rev. J. W. and Mrs. Smith and Jurg and Margaret, passed through this week, returning home to Edmonton after spending a six weeks' vacation at Vancouver and other U.S. points.

by D. M. Duggan, J. J. Bowlen, and Dr. Walter Morrish, the new Liberal member, the debate on the throne speech went off quickly. The speeches of the mover and seconder of the reply, being models of brevity.

D. M. Duggan, the Conservative leader, did not succeed in getting his private bill to provide for putting the frozen saving certificates into circulation as far as second reading. Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, explained the views of the government in refusing to vote for the bill. He said the holders of these certificates were in a bad position now, but would be in a worse if their securities were thrown to the investment "wolves." As it is, he said, these securities would eventually realize their full face value, but if they were allowed to go into the market now, they would be heavily discounted and probably bought up by the bond dealers, who would in the end reap the full benefit when they are redeemed.

Thou Shalt Not Love

GEORGIA CRAIG

"Yes, you do sound as if you might be the very girl I'm looking for..." And then he went on amazingly: "I've been hunting this town over, turning everything upside down, wishing that Fate would send me a girl such as you seem to be. A lovely girl who has been placed and seen things, who could take her place anywhere, and probably has, even if she wouldn't want it known—a girl without family ties or other encumbrances, at least, I think, smile twinkled at her little crookedly. "Beginning to get a little of the why of the cross examination?" And—a girl with sufficient disregard for the conventions to allow herself to be mocked into the type I want her to represent. A reckless, heartless, fast-living playgirl!" Again the twisted smile. "I was beginning to believe such a girl could exist only in fiction, but—"

Starr caught her breath sharply, looking at him as though searching for the Mephistophelian physical attributes his woman intimated might be expected to be discovered. What madness was this? For a fleeting moment Starr feared that the curse of Tut-Amen-Ra, mercifully forgotten for a few pitiful moments, was attacking her mind instead of her body. This couldn't be real.

Probably she was still back in the Museum, still under the spell of a painted priestess. She was uncertain whether this whole episode of the café of painted women and licentious-looking men—and the man whose very appearance represented to her all she had lost, all she might never hope to grasp—was a fantastic creation of her own imagination. "Hassan," she had deliberately called him in her own mind, stubbornly putting away the idea that all the people in the world she had ever seen he least resembled anything or anybody Egyptian or Arab. In that peculiar mood where she had determined to embrace, instead of cringe, from the thin Egyptian which had lured her father to his death, she had decided on this name for the man as symbolic for the fact, her own Arabian Night's tale. It couldn't be anything else.

But she wondered what his name might really be. That didn't matter, either, in this tumultuously foolish dream. She stole a glance at "Hassan's" strong profile, the warm pressure of his hand sending tingles of fire through her cold blood. Oh, no, he was real enough! No Arabian Night's Hassan. Probably somebody called Reggie by his friends, or on the other hand, Bill.

He went on rapidly, as though making the most casual conversation:

"I'll provide you with an apartment, of course, the kind of setting you should have. As a matter of fact—" He paused a moment, studying her. "Gad! What an idea! With those eyes, that coloring—all this talk we've been having about Egypt—you're not Egyptian, of course, but what an idea! You could be it and—" He stared at her, as if he didn't see her at all, but as if she were some puppet of his imagination he was trying to set into its own little jig-saw puzzle place. "You could forget you'd ever been—"

Starr didn't know why, but she found herself nodding, taking part in the game whatever it was, as she said dreamily:

"Forget—forget—" It was a half-hypnotic, mechanical reply. How much she wanted to forget! "The Arabs have a saying: 'In the desert one forgets everything, one remembers nothing any more.' I was in the desert—once." "A."

The man stared at her a moment, half hypnotized himself.

"What an actress!" he murmured, then the half contemptuous grin came back and he went on in the same cold-blooded business tones: "I'll furnish the setting, yes. I'll introduce you to the right people. I'll make you shine like a diamond. If you fall in with me you won't have a thing in the world to do but play to your heart's content."

So that was it, was it? She might have known. "If you fall in with me—" The same old proposition any girl in the world would have recognized, even as unscrupulous as a girl as Starr. Whose eyes, as it appeared, were wide-wise—and were not. Even she could recognize that old thing for what it was. The same old thing merely dressed up in new words!

Starr had thought that there was no room in her tired heart for more emotion. But another worm of bitterness ate in, creeping along, lingering, making itself at home.

Yet in spite of it she found herself considering the offer. This was not the same thing she had been up against at the employment agency. It was quite another matter, no lawless old boss who wanted to employ you in the guise of secretary, who wanted you to "be nice to him." This man—he represented so much of all she had looked upon from afar. He was her own kind. He represented—glamour.

Her hitherto well catalogued thoughts on one subject whirled in a vortex, spun to a centre. Other girls—Girls did sell themselves for less than six months of life. Every day they thought nothing of it. Why not she, who had so little to lose, so much to gain? This stranger, this New York Arabian Night's "Hassan" who had materialized merely as a tumultuous wish, was offering her everything she wanted so desperately—except true love, of course. And that she dared not accept from any man, even though it should be offered.

Her voice was brittle as her head lifted with the imperiousness of one of those ancient princesses she resembled.

"And the price?"

"Hassan" sounded suddenly shocked. As he quickly he moved a bit away from her.

"Oh, you mustn't misunderstand me." He glanced quickly at her, then away, but in one quick glance, decided not to make the bald statement he had intended. He put it in a mild way, "I—er—I assure you I'll not attempt to inflict myself upon you in any—er—unpleasant way. It's a business proposition—merely. You will be on a salary. You see, it will work out like this: All the time you are playing, as you may say, want to play, you will actually be working for me!"

"Leltak sa'id, effendi," said Starr softly. "Have it your own way." "I salute you, man, and you can take it or leave it!"

Starr wanted to study him, did not dare. But catching a slanting glimpse of his eyes, she was instantly assailed by her suspicions. What was this man, this "Hassan" of Broadway, he wasn't that kind!

He wasn't the kind who picked up girls on the street or accosted them in cafes merely because they were alone. He didn't have to. He had that indefinable charm which is irresistible to the opposite sex. Hadn't she felt it herself when they were dancing—all the time before and after? Starr made a mental guess that her "Hassan" had kept many a debutante sitting by her side, phone, drumming her polished finger nails, waiting for his call.

He was waving away the waiter who hovered obsequiously near. His eyes were on Starr. There seemed to be a dash of doubt in them, for all he had said.

"I've got a lot more to say to you," he said. "There's plenty to be explained. How about us getting out of here—my place isn't far away—we can have a bit of supper there, and—and—well, there plenty to talk about..." He was rising. "Let's go."

Starr did not answer, for there was no answer. She was conscious only of the soft clatter of clinking glasses in the place, the muted clamor of traffic outside, the unrealness of everything as she picked up her purse, shivering a little, feeling much in a daze as she felt him take her arm and guide her toward the door as though she had no will of her own.

She made only one remark when he settled her in the taxi. She said:

"I'm afraid I won't be a very good companion tonight. I had a grouch when you drifted by. I—I feel just like breaking things."

"Don't let me interfere with any of your childish pleasures," he said, and laughed cheerfully. "Anything your little heart desires. I've even got a lot of ex-Christmas presents at home you can try your hand on. And the pleasure will be all mine."

CHAPTER V.

Starr did not see the calculating glance Fairbourne gave her in the darkness of the taxi. If there had been any lingering doubts in his mind, this simple acquiescence to going with her wherever he led assured that. His conscience was clear. And why not, he argued to himself, seeing where he had at last caught up with her? She might have her own racket, but at least she was new enough at it for it not to stick out too plainly, and he could mold her to his own wishes.

They got out before the low doorway of an old-fashioned house, one of those obviously made into apartments of the smarter class. He led her through the doorway lighted

A Japanese serving man opened the door and they went through a hallway, a dark woodwork and lined walls, to a big living room where a fire burned on the hearth where once had been a grate.

Sure Of A Welcome

United States Has Warm Affection For King Edward

Every good American will echo heartily the approval of President Roosevelt in Quebec—"We look forward to the day when, finding it possible to come again to the Dominion, he (King Edward) may also visit with his neighbors in the United States." What an uproarious greeting he would receive! The visit would make any similar event in our history seem a tame thing and would do more than a hundred polo matches, cup races and naval and economic conferences to promote a better mutual understanding. There is an abiding admiration here for English institutions and a warm affection for the King—and Americans would welcome an opportunity to display them. Inasmuch as the young King has not hesitated to depart from precedents and to make some of his own, an acceptance of the President's indirect invitation to display them.

It is nothing new for a President to leave his native land. President Wilson went to Europe twice. President Harding to Vancouver, and President Coolidge to Cuba. But no King of England has ever set foot in the United States—Boston Herald.

Sir Henry Lytton For Half A Century In Operatic Work

Sir Henry Lytton, last of the old Savoyards, died at his home in London after a long illness.

He was 69 years old and had spent more than a half century singing a wide variety of roles in Gilbert and Sullivan operas. His appearances with the D'Oyly Carte company, of which he was a member during most of his career, brought him fame as one of the finest light opera singers ever to play the Savoy operetta.

He appeared in the productions more than 15,000 times and 5,000 performances of "The Mikado" alone.

Wants To Write Book

Young Railway Porter Hopes To Return To West Indies

To Emerson S. Mahon, portering is but a means to an end. The colored observation-car attendant on the Canadian Pacific Railway's train that runs from Winnipeg to Edmonton, hopes some day, to return to his native West Indies and there to write a book.

Mahon would like to tell the world of the ancient customs and practices of the West Indians, particularly of those on the Isle of Grenada, where he was born and from where he came to Canada 24 years ago. He intends, some day, to dig deep into the centuries—old lore of the people in that group of islands in the Caribbean Sea.

But before doing that the smiling porter wants to progress further in his study of the Hebrew religion. Mahon is an ordained Rabbi. He holds three degrees in the ancient Jewish faith. His ambition is to attend a Hebrew seminary in Great Britain to obtain the highest degree in his religion, that of Rav, or chief rabbi.

Mahon's home is in Winnipeg. Four nights a week he is "on the road," the other three being spent in the Manitoba capital, where he preaches his faith. He explained there are seven degrees of rabbi. He is authorized to practice three of those. His ambition is to obtain the remaining four.

The young porter explained that Hebrew is not at all an uncommon religion among negroes. The faith, he said, had its beginning in the West Indies in 1492. In that year, he related, Jews were expelled from Spain, many emigrating to the western hemisphere.

The negro slaves as a general rule conformed to the religion of their masters. His grandmother, who married an Irishman who fled to the West Indies from his native land, was born a year before slaves were freed. Her religion was Hebrew, as was that of her "master." That has been the religion of his family ever since. —Lethbridge Herald.

British Empire In Ships

Artist Spends Ten Years Painting Story On Plywood

A little woman with an idea 100 yards long and 75 feet high has arrived in London to see if she can sell it.

She is Clara Fargo Thomas, noted American artist, and the idea, which she has been ten years perfecting, is a pictorial story, painted on plywood, of the British Empire in ships—starting with the Regent, built in the fifteenth century, and finishing with the Queen Mary.

"Since childhood ships have fascinated me," Mrs. Thomas declared. "I have haunted museums and searched records to get all details accurate."

Her professional career started when, owing her dressmaker money, she offered to paint her furniture. By the time she had finished the dressmaker owed her money.

While in London, Mrs. Thomas is using the studio of Sir John Lavery, famous painter.

Pencils From Japan

Laid Down At Less Than Cost Of Raw Materials

Imports of pencils into Canada from Japan in May of this year were about equal to estimated domestic production for the same month. Imports were almost as great as total imports from Japan for the whole year 1935, says Bookkeeper and Stationer, Toronto.

The average price of these imports was placed at approximately 24 cents per gross, compared with a valuation of 1935 importations of 58 cents per gross and 61 cents per gross in 1934. The laid-down cost declared on Japanese pencils in Canadian ports of entry is said in many instances to be actually lower than the cost of the raw materials that went into them.

Hard On Teachers

The bureau of education has ruled that school teachers in Greater Shanghai could not use rouge, lipstick, face powder or permanent waves as they were "incompatible with educational principles." Similar prohibitions previously applied to girls students.

Gold Production

Production of gold from Saskatchewan and Manitoba sources during June was recorded at 14,076 ounces while the total for the first six months 1935 was $75,840,000 as compared to 75,507 ounces in the same period of last year.

The New York Times and the Boston Transcript are the only two daily newspapers circulating in the United States that do not publish comic strips.

Little Helps For This Week

A soft answer turneth away wrath, but grievous words stir up anger, Proverbs 15:1.

Renew Thine Image, Lord in me, Lovely and gentle may I be; No charms but these to Thee are dear;

No anger mayest Thou ever find, No pride in my untrimmed mind; But faith and heaven-born peace be there.

Neither say or do ought displeasing to thy neighbor; and if thou hast been wanting in charity, seek thy forgiveness or speak to him with gentleness. Injuries hurt not more in the receiving than in the remembering. A small injury shall go as it comes, a great injury may dine or sup with you. Why should you vex yourself because another has vexed you? Grief for things past that cannot be remedied, and care for things to come that cannot be prevented, may easily hurt and can never benefit you. Therefore commit yourself to God in both, and enjoy the present.

Man Without A Country

Former Russian Leader May Be Forced To Leave Norway

Indications are that Leon Trotsky, former Russian revolutionary leader, might soon be returned to his usual status of a man without a country. The wandering, sickly Bolshevik is to be expelled from Norway, government sources said, if charges of new international intrigue are proved against him. At the same time, Pravda, Moscow Communist organ, made clear that there would be no hope for reconciliation between Trotsky and Stalin.

Banned from his own revolutionary land and excluded from many others, Trotsky accepted refuge in Norway with the promise to refrain from propaganda or other international activity. Recently young Norwegian Nazis broke into Trotsky's home at Honfoss and found papers which they said dealt with plots in France and Spain. They handed them over to police.

Trotsky entered Norway June 13, 1935.

Scientific Work In North

Arctic Patrol Has Not Been Hindered By Adverse Weather

In an interview at Churchill Major McKean, in charge of the Canadian government's eastern Arctic patrol on the R.M.S. Nascopie, stated that the administrative and scientific programs of the patrol had not been delayed or hindered by weather or other conditions since entering Hudson's Straits.

Mr. Ney and his assistant, Mr. Courtwright, had transferred to the M.S. Fort Garry at Port Burwell for the purpose of establishing astronomical stations in the Ungava bay area.

Messrs. Leechman and Nichols were left at Wolstenholme to continue their investigations on the mainland of Quebec and the nearby islands.

These scientists will be taken on board the Nascopie and continue their work as far north as Craig harbor, returning to Ottawa with the other members of the patrol.

It is questionable whether the sawfly is as much a menace to Canadian forests as the sawmill.

According to a trade journal there is a distinct boom in new cars. And usually a distinct rattle in old ones.

A Much-Abused Word

"Thoroughbred" Is One That Is Seldom Correctly Used

A word much abused in its everyday use is "thoroughbred." A provincial government bulletin received a few days ago referred to "thoroughbred cattle." Trotting horses coming to an Ottawa track were designated by the same name, while it is not unusual to hear a person refer to a dog or cat as a thoroughbred. Actually the word intended in all such cases was "pure bred."

A thoroughbred is a special breed of horse, is a proper name and should therefore be capitalized. Thoroughbreds are as distinct a breed as Hackneys, Standard Breds, Shetlands, among horses or Jerseys, Holsteins or Ayrshires among cattle.

When an animal is registered as to purity of breed it can be referred to as a "pure bred" and that is the term which is intended when "thoroughbred" is often thoughtlessly used.—Ottawa Journal.

Blairmore, Alta., Fri. Sept. 4, 1936

As evidence of the power of the Press, we clip the following from a country newspaper: "Owing to the overcrowded condition of our columns, a number of births and deaths are unavoidably postponed until next month."

"It may be possible to give $5,000 credit a year to every family on the present basis of living." Hans E. Wight, M.L.A., for Lethbridge, stated at a public meeting last Thursday evening. To which might be added: It is possible to give them $10,000 or $20,000, or even the sky might be the limit. It depends upon what value Alberta Credit will have.—The Celestian Journal.

Whatever might be said of the town council of Blairmore in recent years (prior to the regime of the 1936 aggregation), a number of mementos remain to their credit that are anything but inspiring, including the main street boulevard and its spray, the rock crusher, and the advertising billboard on the south side of the main street. The spraying system is the biggest joke of the three mentioned. Second in rank of honorable mention is the rock crusher, and the third the billboard. Railway officials have of late been hesitant to express their views regarding the billboard, but we have heard from them this, that unless that useless contraption is removed, the Seventh Avenue crossing is just as dangerous as was the old Fifth Avenue crossing. The rock crusher, of great worth, is not being used, and the money represented in its value could have been well spent. The main street spraying system has never given satisfaction.

ANCIENT SCRIP—PAGE

MR. ABERHART

In 1685, the Intendant Meules hit upon the expedient of making paper money (in French Canada—Ed.). He had no funds to pay the soldiers. "Not knowing to what saint to make my vows," he wrote, "the idea occurred to me of putting into circulation notes made of cards, each cut into four pieces; and I have issued an ordinance commanding the inhabitants to receive them in payment." The cards were common playing-cards, stamped with the fleur-de-lis and a crown, and signed by the intendant. They were convertible, not into coin, but into bills of exchange on France.

At first they were accepted at their face value; but as new floods of card money were issued at every financial crisis in the colony's history, their value sank. Even the habitants lost faith in them; and in the last days of New France, the colony floundered in drifts of worthless paper.

As the purchasing value of the card money fell, prices naturally rose; and the difficulty of financing New France during its dying years was an important factor in its collapse.—W. S. Wallace, A History of the Canadian People.

Donovan's wife was suing him for maintenance. After hearing both sides of the case, the magistrates consulted. Presently the chairman of the bench addressed Donovan: "We have decided," he said, "to allow your wife ten shillings a week."

Donovan beamed back at him and said: "Why, shure, and that's very generous of you. I'll see if I can add a bob or two now and again."

"THE ENEMY OF THE WORLD"

Our people, or at least the vast bulk, are too provincial-minded to comprehend the meaning of the Greiseric incident at Geneva....

I thoroughly agree with Dr. Robert McElroy, famed historian of Oxford, who said only the other day: "The enemy of the world—of all the world—is not Hitler; it is not Mussolini, nor Stalin—no, the enemy of the world is the provincial mind. The woes of the world are not due to immovable economic forces; they are due to removable politicians, Republicans, Democrats, Socialists, Bolsheviks, Fascists, Nazis. The world is weary of their ways of narrow parochialism; of scheming promises, made only to deceive, by men too small for the problems committed to them for solution. Today, we face the grave need of the international mind."—Marlen Pew, in Editor & Publisher.

Heard on the Highway

Constable (to motorist): "Excuse me, sir, but your lights are out."

Motorist: "Oh, thanks, but it doesn't really matter."

"Yes, it does. By the way, have you got your driving licence?"

"Driving licence? Never had one."

"Is that so? And what about your insurance?"

"I never carry that. That's not of much use."

"All right. That will make three charges."

At this point the motorist's wife learned across and said sweetly: "Don't pay too much attention to what he says, constable; he's always like that when he's drunk."—Hamilton Review.

HOW TO PLEASE MEN

Even in these fiercely feminist days many women still find it pays to study their menfolk. Here, then, are a few helpful suggestions for those who would have happy and, therefore, profitable hobbies:

1. Give them novels in which the hero is cruelly misjudged by his wife. All men feel this way. Hence the strong masculine appeal of Bindie and Mark ("If Winter Comes") Sabre.
2. Let them buy their own neckwear, hosiery, and pipes. Men find it so embarrassingly difficult to keep such tasteful gifts from their womenfolk in decent seclusion.
3. Cook them simple, changeless meals. Bacon and eggs for breakfast, roast beef or steak-and-kidney pie and a boiled pudding for dinner. Never try to improve on these.

4. Never visit a man at his place of business. Most men do their best at the office to foster an impression that their wives are quite-out-of-the-ordinary women.
5. On no account suggest to a man that his secretary or typist is attractive. Contrary to popular belief, many men do not notice this until it is pointed out to them.

6. Always urge a man to go out alone and have a thoroughly good time whenever he feels like it. Few men ever really feel like doing anything their wives urge them to do.
7. Always defer outwardly to the preposterous prejudice of a man's mother. No man can ever quite persuade himself that his mother may not be her boy's best friend.
8. Arrange with a tactful ally to hint at the approach of wedding and other important anniversaries. It gives men such a noble feeling to think they have remembered these.
10. Never, never talk to him while he is reading the newspaper. He has the right to read the paper first and, also, when he wants to. If you are reading the paper and he calls for it, fold it up nicely and hand it to him with a smile.

Above all, never remind a man that whatever he may say, most widowers marry again.

"Come, Mary, I will show you how to milk the cows," said Martha to her city cousin visiting the dairy farm for the first time.

Martha: "Hah! I better begin with a calf until I get more experience!"

Cranbrook offered a prize to the person who would make the nearest guess as to what time a certain clock would start in Blairmore. No only the clock, but a whole nonsensical alibi was dead.

We learn that Jack Forsey will accompany Harry Brown to Earlswood hockey club, London, England, instead of Bill Burnett as previously announced. Burnett is to try out with the New York Americans. All players are members of last year's Kimberley Dynanites, the Allan Cup winners.

A Blairmore man was discovered laying on the bottom in about eighteen inches of water at Lee Lake a few days ago with several bottle corks floating over his mouth. He had been told that several bad teeth could be "floated" out by that method and without pain.

A three-day western annual meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy will be held in Edmonton, opening Wednesday, September 30th. It is expected that about 150 mining men from various parts of Canada will attend. Col. George Cole, of Winnipeg, director of mines for Manitoba, will preside.

Like the Swede who remarked: "For the last ten years I have been trying to say crock, and now they call it a yug," after several attempts on the part of The Enterprise to tell all about a United church Sunday school picnic, now they've renamed it a "get-together," and it will likely happen a week from tomorrow, Saturday, September 12th, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six.

Here's a good one from the Calgary Herald:

DUCK BAG LIMIT IS REDUCED

Ottawa—Stringent regulations to protect Canada's wild ducks and geese were announced recently by Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of interior, as federal officers moved to save the wild water fowl of the country from extinction.

The supply of ducks and geese has been depleted seriously in recent years by drought, failure of ice-geese and other causes. The new regulations provide a general reduction in the length of season and bag limit. A maximum season of two months was decreed; baiting and live waterfowl devices were prohibited. Bag limits were not to exceed 12 ducks per day and 150 for the season and five geese per day and 50 for the season. The sale of waterfowl, largely prohibited now, is closed except in the extreme north.

Brant, an Atlantic coast type of wild goose, was protected by a closed season. This species has been depleted past the danger point by failure of ice-geese, its main food supply. This plant has been plagued by some epidemic disease which scientists have been unable to control.

For months the interior department has been investigating conditions across Canada. It found supply of birds depleted seriously from over-shooting, extension of agriculture in the western breeding areas, and severe drought in the prairies.

Migratory birds on the continent are controlled by a treaty between Canada and the United States. Even if the Canadian regulations were stringent, they are not as drastic as the American laws where the hunters' bag limit is 10 ducks and four geese per day.

N.S. ESTATE DUTY

HALIFAX, Sept. 4.—Legal provisions to evade payment of successions duties from the $3,000,000 assets left by the late Hon. James Robson Douglas, former lieutenant-governor of Nova Scotia, were snapped on Monday by a decision of Special Commissioner Charles F. Tremaine, filed in the probatory office at Halifax.

Under the findings of the commissioner, the provincial treasury will garner a total of $33,031 from the estate of the Amherst, N.S., financier and insurance man who established his domicile in succession-duty-free Bermuda, a few years before his death. He died at Montreal in December 1934.

The Cowley school reopened on Monday with Miss Nellie McWilliams and Miss Madeleine Hewitt as teachers.

On Monday night the Cowley girls gave a surprise party for Miss Muri Smyth at her home, two and a half miles north of town, presenting her with a fountain pen. Miss Smyth will be leaving shortly for Calgary, where she intends taking a course in dressmaking.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

At all Christian Science churches next Sunday, the subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "Man." The following is one of the scriptural quotations contained in the Lesson-Sermon: "And God said, let us make man in our image, after our likeness; and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them" (Genesis 1:26-27). One of the correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, is as follows (page 94): "Man reflects infinite Truth, Life and Love. The nature of man, thus understood, includes all that is implied by the terms 'image' and 'likeness' as used in Scripture."

Vera: "What color dress will you wear to the ball?"

Edna: "We're supposed to wear something to match our boy friend's hair, so I'll wear black. What will you wear?"

Vera: "Well, I don't think I'll go. My boy friend's bald."

HILLCREST HAPPENINGS

August D'Ercole passed away on Thursday, following a very brief illness, at the age of twenty-seven. He was a very popular young man, and active in all sports circles. He leaves to mourn his passing his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D'Ercole, of Hillcrest; four brothers, Conge, of Vancouver; Tony, Eddie and Richard, of Hillcrest; and one sister, Fifi, of Coquitla. Funeral service was held in St. Theresa church on Monday, and the remains were laid to rest in the Catholic cemetery.

The four new members of the Hillcrest teaching staff are Misses H. Westrup, B. Davies and M. Grant, and Mr. C. Richards.

"SEVEN POUNDS NAILS, MIXED, THANK YOU"

Someone in High River has a mean eye this week and he's on the lookout for one particular chap with a true spirit of retaliation and a sense of humor of a deep routed and devastating type. There is much chuckling about town when listening to the story—supposedly true, of the chap who entered the hardware and requested "A dollar's worth of nails, please." The clerk very politely asked the customer what size nails he preferred. Would he have shingle nails, two inch nails or did he prefer spikes? Having spent his life dealing with particular people he was a bit amazed when the reply came "Oh, just mix them up. I'll have a few of every variety." Now, a dollar's worth of nails means somewhere about seven pounds, but the clerk poured them into the bag and carefully tying them up, handed them to the purchaser.

In return he was handed a crisp new Prosperity certificate—stamps and all. "But we don't accept these," he exclaimed. "Oh, that's all right then," was the reply. "Here, take back your nails." The customer and his certificate walked serenely out of the store hand in hand, leaving the unbeliever gingerly hefting a sack of nails and counting thoughts of violent and unethical business methods—High River Times.

It took the storekeeper a whole hour to re-distribute the nails to their proper places.

ACCURACY IN REPORTING

Every public speaker should make a note of what Lord Derby has to say about reporters. "There is nothing connected with the press that has ever got me into greater trouble than what I have been saying." That is different from the politician, too common who, when he finds he has said the wrong thing, tries to claim he was misquoted. —Niagara Falls Review.

FIFTY YEARS AGO—1886

The sugar price fifty years ago averaged 9.66 per pound.

Fifty years ago, women wore hoop skirts, bustles, petticoats, corsets, cotton stockings (not hose), high buttoned shoes, ruffled cotton drawers, flannel nightgowns, puffs in their hair, did their own cooking, baking, cleaning, washing, ironing, and raised big families, went to church on Sunday and were too busy to be sick.

Men wore whiskers, square hats, ascot ties, red flannel underwear, big watches and chains, chopped wood for stoves, bathed once a week in summer and went in for politics, drank ten-cent whiskey and five-cent beer, rode bicycles, buggies or sleighs, worked twelve hours a day and lived to a ripe old age.

Stores burned coal-oil lamps, carried everything from a needle to a plough, trusted everybody, never took an inventory, placed orders for goods a year in advance and always made money.

Today—The Year 1936

Today women wear silk hose, low shoes, no corsets, and an ounce of underwear; have bobbed hair, smoke, paint, powder, drink cocktails, have operations, play bridge, drive cars, have pet dogs and go in for politics.

Men have high blood pressure, wear no hats and have no hair, shave whiskers, wear wrist watches, shoot golf, bathe twice a day, drink poison, play the stock market and ride in aeroplanes, and never go to bed the same day they get up; are misunderstood at home, pay more attention to the other fellow's business than their own, talk depression, work five hours a day, play fan-tan and died young.

Stores have electric lights, cash registers, elevators, but never have what a customer wants; they trust nobody, take inventories twice daily, never buy in advance, have overhead, mark up, mark down, quota, budget, advertising, stock control; annual, semi-annual and end of month. They have dollar-day, rummage and economy-day sales, and never make money.

In 1886, they'll be eating, drinking and making merry, for tomorrow'll be Lenin's holiday. The day after that Memorial day for Bernard Shaw, and all the stores will close.

GOOD WILL

The most precious thing any one can have is the good will of others. It is something as fragile as an archid, and as beautiful. It is more precious than a gold nugget, and as hard to find. It is as powerful as a great turbine, and as hard to keep. It is an intangible something, this good will of others, yet more to be desired than much gold. It is the measure of a man's success and determines his usefulness in this life.—EX.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Attend to Your Shadow Contrasts

Strong shadow contrasts, plus foreground objects and a foreground "frame," all combine to give these pictures depth and perspective.

WHAT makes some pictures seem real enough to walk right into, while others appear to be little more than a design on a flat wall?

The thing that makes the difference is that quality in a picture, variously called "perspective," "depth," or "third dimension effect," that puts objects in relief so that they appear solid, and makes it possible correctly to perceive their relative size and position.

In photography, this quality of reality is created chiefly by proper attention to contrasts in lights and shadows. Remember that to achieve reality in a painting, the artist creates light and shadow contrasts, but that in nature such contrasts do not always come ready made. They must be looked for. In nature what often seems a good picture to the eye is not a good picture for the camera lens, because of the absence of contrasts. The eye is aided by our imagination, but not so the lens. In the print, the scene may turn out flat and uninteresting, especially if we try to include the whole country side in the picture.

Hence, to get perspective, pay attention to light and shadow contrasts. Look for vantage points that best reveal them. Usually the longer and more sharply defined the shadows the greater is the third dimensional effect and the appearance of reality of objects depicted. In outdoor photography there is value in taking pictures when the sun is low, because then shadows are long and accentuate the perspective. Always remember, too, the photographer's maxim: "Expose for the shadows and the high lights will take care of themselves." That, however, does not mean always to expose for a very deep shadow, but, in general, to expose to record detail in the intermediate shadows.

Another way to accentuate depth in a photograph, especially in scenic views, is to include a distinctive foreground object, which emphasizes the diminished size of objects in the distance, thus creating "depth." A human figure or tree, in the foreground at the right or left, will often serve the purpose and at the same time add interest.

Another way is to choose a vantage point which will give the picture a foreground "frame." Such a frame often serves where long shadows and distinctive foreground objects are absent. Foreground trees with lacy overhanging boughs are splendidly useful as frames. They are full of beauty in themselves, and, if in the print they show completely in silhouette, that is to say, in dark outline without interior detail, the effect is often all the better. Everything beyond is accentuated by the dark tone that strikes its deep note in front.

Similarly a foreground archway in a bridge or other structure is not only an attractive element itself, but helps the eye to move forward into the picture to the scene beyond.

Study these points before you "shoot."

Shooting From High Places

The effect of altitude is enhanced in these two pictures, (below) by including in the foreground the brow of the hill, and (right) by the shadow of the building (Empire State) from which the downward shot was made. The pictures were taken at exposures, respectively, of 1/50 second at f.16, and 1/25 second at f.16.

RECALLING your vacation tours, did it ever occur to you how often you were taken or went to high elevations for a view? The summit of a hill, the edge of a precipice, the mountain peak, the skyscraper, the lofty monument, the church tower, the crow's nest of a ship, not to mention going aloft in airplanes.

There is a picture-taking test for the next time you start going places. Forget not your camera, and whenever you find yourself "on top of the world" somewhere, make your self "monarch of all you survey" by snapping the picture below. Reserve a part of your album for such pictures with an intriguing title—"Jumping Off Places I Have Known," "Scenes from High Perches," "My Camera Goes Aloft," "Topside Snap," "Hitting the High Spots" or what better can you think of? If you will take advantage of such opportunities—and once you get started on this hobby, you are likely to see that you go to high places purposely for picture-taking—you will soon have a collection of compelling, not to say dizzy, interest.

The impression that you want to give in these pictures is that of airy altitude. To do this it isn't necessary to test on the brink of your perch or otherwise to risk your life while you snap the picture. It is better for you and the picture to stand far enough back to include a little of the brink in the foreground, thereby intensifying the feeling of height. Having the horizon line well toward the top of the picture also helps by adding distance and vastness.

You may be tempted to poke your camera over the edge of a retaining wall or window ledge and shoot down. If it be a country landscape, shooting down will not usually give the perspective that conveys the effect of great altitude, so well as shooting with the camera held level, although the picture may still be interesting. In any case, when you do shoot down, the effect will be helped by taking in a nearby object located on the way, such as a protruding gargoyle from a church tower, a jutting rock from a precipice, or a bit of the wing or wheel of your airplane. Have the sun at your back, because the shadow of your elevation on the terrain below also helps to tell that you were high up when that picture was taken.

In all such snapshotting it is advisable to use a small lens opening, otherwise, you will lose a little detail in the distance. Frequently, too, it is worth while to use a filter, particularly if your picture is to include a cloud-studded horizon or if there is haze.

MINIMUM PRICE FOR WHEAT SAME AS LAST YEAR

Ottawa.—The Dominion government accepted the recommendation of the Canadian wheat board, making the minimum price of wheat 87½ cents per bushel, basis head of the lake, for No. 1 Northern. The minimum price, guaranteed by the government, will only come into effect should the market price fall below 90 cents. The new minimum price is the same as that in operation last year.

Announcement was made by Prime Minister Mackenzie King following a session of cabinet council.

The effect of the decision, which was reached at a meeting of the cabinet, will be that the wheat board will not buy any of this year's crop unless the price falls below 90 cents, when it will step in and support the market by buying from the farmers all wheat offered at 87½ cents. In the meantime farmers wishing to sell will do so on the open market.

With this year's crop of wheat now pouring on the market, this is a time of heavy bidding and it is understood the board will hold off selling from its carryover until the bidding-pressure has been removed. The amount of old wheat held in Canada at the end of the crop year (July 31) was 108,750,000 bushels, part of which is still held by the wheat board but a considerable portion of it is held by private interests.

In his announcement of the price minister said the recommendation was approved only to the extent that it becomes automatically effective whenever the closing market price of No. 1 Northern wheat at Fort William drops below 90 cents. The board's trading would not affect the situation if the market improved to a point above that level at closing.

This announcement follows close upon a visit to Ottawa by James R. Murray, chairman of the wheat board, who was called into consultation by the cabinet. It was felt by the government that to take any other action at the present time might seem to prejudice the findings of the commission set up by Justice W. F. A. Turgeon, which is now investigating the whole aspect of wheat marketing from every angle.

Celebrated Birthday

Lord Tweedsmuir Opens Canadian Pacific Exhibition In Vancouver

Vancouver.—Lord Tweedsmuir and Vancouver celebrated their birthdays together.

Sixty-one years ago the governor-general was born at Perth, Scotland, and on August 26 he opened the Canada Pacific exhibition, climax event of the golden jubilee.

The linking of Canada by a trans-continental railway 60 years ago, His Excellency termed a miracle of which familiarity had dulled our perception.

"In the destiny of Canada," he continued, "Vancouver must play a vital—I had almost said a dominant—part. For she is the window out of which Canada looks toward the east. She is the gateway to the Pacific. She is the chief winter grain port of the world. It is not for me to forecast the future, but it is very clear that the east and the Pacific must play a major part in international affairs."

Barred From United States

Communist Member Of British Parliament Not Allowed To Enter

Washington.—The United States government has refused to permit William Gallacher, a Communist member of the British parliament, to enter this country. The American Civil Liberties Union has made public a protest over the refusal of the department to grant a temporary visa to Gallacher, now travelling in Canada.

The action was taken, it was explained, under the American immigration act prohibiting entry of persons who are members of groups that have as their object the overthrow of organized governments by force and violence.

Wheat Crop In North

Prince Albert, Sask.—This year's wheat crop will put approximately $18,000,000 in pockets of farmers in the Prince Albert division of the Canadian National Railway, it is estimated here. Local railway officials estimate the division's production of wheat will total 78,477,000 bushels, about 2,000,000 bushels less than last year.

Would Affect Canada

Australian Group Asks That Trade Treaty Be Renounced

Ottawa.—The proposal to denounce the Ottawa trade agreement between the United Kingdom and Australia, if carried into effect, would indirectly affect Canada because this country enjoys the British preferential rates on some of the goods it exports to Australia. A cable from Adelaide stated the associated chamber of manufacturers there asked that the treaty be denounced.

The trade treaty in force between Canada and Australia was negotiated in 1931 and was in effect when the Ottawa agreements were signed the year following. It was not changed by the imperial economic conference held here. It was originally for three years and has since been extended.

The largest exports of Canada to Australia such as canned salmon, newspaper and lumber have definite rates in the Canadian treaty and would not be affected if the U.K.-Australia treaty were killed. Neither would automobile chassis rates but in a large number of miscellaneous items Canada is given the British preference whatever it may be and if these were changed Canada's trade would be affected. They include machinery, textiles and other manufactured goods.

Rains Relieve Drought

But Much More Needed To Bring Back Pastures

Ottawa.—Recent rains have partially relieved drought conditions in southwestern Ontario, southern Manitoba, southwestern Saskatchewan and adjoining areas in Alberta, started a crop report issued by the Dominion bureau of statistics.

Harvesting, nearing completion, has been generally interrupted by showery weather over the prairie wheat fields. Wheat deliveries were still increasing and would soon reach the peak. Quality was generally good with the protein content extremely high. Yields varied from very poor in the worst drought areas to good in the northern districts, where moisture supplies were adequate for growth. Rust, while widespread, had caused little damage on account of the early ripening.

The report continues:

"Coarse grains are yielding poorly over the greater part of the prairies and pastures are badly depleted, requiring much more rain to bring them back. Supplies of rough forage are adequate in Manitoba but in the drought areas of Alberta and Saskatchewan, farmers are stacking Russian thistle for winter feed. Some hay damage was caused to late crops in the Calgary and Lethbridge areas by a storm."

Exports From Churchill

Four Vessels Have Already Sailed With Grain Cargoes

Churchill, Man.—Exports of wheat have passed the 1,000,000-bushel mark at this northern Manitoba seaport. Four trans-Atlantic ships have already sailed with grain cargoes and close to 20 are expected to go out bound before the season ends early in October. The record year for the port was 1934 with 15 sailings.

Since the S.S. Firby sailed August 9 to open the 1935 shipping season, 1,277,000 bushels of grain have been exported and inbound cargoes have included mining equipment, glass and general merchandise for prairie points. The other ships which have already sailed were the Westworth, Salmon Pool and Jean L.D.

For Greater Defence

France And Belgium Make Plans To Increase Armies

Paris.—France is mapping intensive plans for strengthening her military defences, convinced Nazi Germany is headed toward war. Brussels dispatches say Belgium will follow Germany in prolonging the term of obligatory military service, it was predicted following a meeting of a commission named to study defence statutes.

French statisticians estimated 5,500,000 men in Europe, a third of them Germans, would be "ready for war" when Germany's new two-year term of military service becomes effective.

Death Toll From Heat

Toronto.—Deaths in Toronto in July, boosted by the heat wave, reached an all-time high for a summer month, the board of health was told by Dr. Gordon P. Jackson, M.O.H. Only four months since 1930 have exceeded July's toll. Of the 730 deaths in the city, 242 were directly attributable to heat, said Dr. Jackson.

Under Tourist Exemption

Largest Amount Of Goods Brought In From United States

Ottawa.—Canada brought into Canada from the United States goods valued at $793,141, under the $100 tourist exemption during May, June and July, the national revenue department disclosed.

In May, out of a total of $118,593 brought in under the exemption rule, $107,172 came from the United States. In the following month the amount more than tripled, $316,484 worth of goods coming in from the United States out of a total of $349,896.

In July there was a slight drop, with $328,229 entering from the United States and $41,256 from other countries, a total of $369,495.

Food Supply Not Affected

Survey Shows United States Supply Up To Average

Washington.—The department of agriculture economists said the drought would have little effect upon the United States food supplies from now until the end of next June.

A special survey on "the food situation" by the bureau of agricultural economics said "the supply of food available for domestic consumption will be almost as large as last year."

Taking into account prospective yields and available supplies from the previous season, the report said the total food supply for the period ending June, 1937, would be three per cent. below that of last season and one per cent. under supplies following the 1934 drought.

RED CROSS IS WILLING TO HELP IN DROUTH AREAS

Toronto.—Norman Somerville of Toronto, chairman of the Canadian Red Cross Society, announced the society would care for extraordinary relief cases in the section of the prairie provinces where the Dominion government considers a case of emergency exists.

"The Red Cross gladly accepts the task the Dominion government has asked it to undertake," Mr. Somerville said. His announcement followed the drought statement by finance minister Charles Dunning who said at Ottawa the government would seek Red Cross aid in coping with certain problems resulting from drought.

At the same time Mr. Somerville announced J. W. McConnell of Montreal telegraphed an offer to contribute $50,000 provided the society is prepared to raise and administer a special relief fund to care "for the extraordinary needs of those suffering because of drought in western Canada."

"The government will provide food, clothing, fuel and feed," Mr. Somerville said in a statement accepting the federal drought assignment. "The duty of the Red Cross will be to supply the needs of those of the victims of the calamity to whom sickness has added further burdens, to mothers who have nothing with which to clothe their new-born infants and to housewives whose blankets, mattresses, kitchenware and like articles of household equipment have become wholly beyond further use."

LEADERS IN THE SPANISH REVOLUTION

MENTIONED FOR POST

Hon. Ernest Lapointe, prominent member of the Canadian Government, who is mentioned as the likely successor to Mr. Philippe Roy as Canadian Minister to France.

New Premier's First Move

Duplessis Cuts Own Pay And That Of Cabinet Ministers

Quebec.—One of the first moves of Quebec's new premier, Hon. Maurice Duplessis, after taking office, was to cut his own salary and those of his cabinet ministers. He also announced plans to reduce seasonal indemnities of members of the legislative assembly.

The premier rushed through an order-in-council cutting his salary from $14,000 annually to $12,000. His cabinet ministers each received a cut from $8,000 to $7,000.

The proposed indemnity reduction is 10 per cent. off the $2,800 paid to a member for each session of the house lasting more than 130 days. It was estimated the reductions would save the treasury about $120,000 annually.

Pensions for blind people of Quebec between the age of 40 and 70 years will be one of the first bills introduced by Hon. Gilbert Layton, newly appointed minister without portfolio, he announced.

Britain Declines To Act

Will Not Take League Mandate Of Western Ethiopia

London.—Great Britain has declined to act on the request of native chiefs that she intervene for a League mandate for western Ethiopia.

Sixty Galla chiefs, in revolt against Italian rule, appealed to the British government to intervene and to accept a League mandate for western Ethiopia. The territory, said to cover 50,000 square miles, includes one of the most fertile tracts in East Africa. It borders the Sudan.

Britain declined to act on the petition, taking the ground that to accept a League mandate would be contrary to her declared attitude in the Ethiopian dispute, namely that she was not seeking material advantages.

Professor Honored

Winnipeg.—Prof. J. N. Finlayson, recently of the University of Manitoba faculty of engineering, was honored by members of the engineering profession on the eve of his departure to assume the duties of Dean at the Faculty of Applied Science at the University of British Columbia.

Should Be Abolished

Jury In Quebec Inquest Rules Against Level Crossings

Louisville, Que.—A coroner's jury decided level railway crossings should be abolished "wherever possible" to prevent such tragedies as the one that shook this little mill town August 15 when a Canadian Pacific Railway freight train collided with a farm truck and 22 of the two-score occupants were killed.

The official verdict at the inquest was that the 22 villagers met an accidental death.

The six jurors, presided over by Dr. Thomas Caron, district coroner, heard evidence of 23 witnesses, several of whom were survivors of the crash, youths who had jumped or been thrown from the truck as it bumped over the crossing on the way home from a political meeting at St. Justin.

Two other suggestions came from the grave little jury after they had deliberated 25 minutes in a small anteroom. One was highway police should apply traffic regulations more rigidly, and the other that applicants for drivers' permits be more closely examined.

Plans Peace Conference

President Roosevelt If Re-Elected May Call Nations Together

New York.—The New York Times reported that President Roosevelt is giving serious consideration, if he is re-elected, to inviting heads of several nations to confer on means of insuring world peace.

If the proposal is carried out, the paper said, Mr. Roosevelt would ask King Edward, Joseph Stalin, Benito Mussolini, Adolf Hitler, President Lebrun, of France, representatives of Japan and China and a few others to meet him at a convenient site.

"Mr. Roosevelt feels that, even if the conference amounted to no more than a gesture, it would be a powerful one and certain to delay war if not to avert it for a much longer period," the Times said.

CABINET ACCEPTS PLAN FOR MOVING WESTERN CATTLE

Ottawa.—Plans to move young cattle from the drought area of western Canada were announced by Hon. James G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture. The plans cover movement to parts of the prairies outside the drought area as well as to eastern Canada. The minister has submitted his plans to the cabinet and they have been accepted.

Three grades of cattle will be affected by the plan: Yearlings which can be shipped east, wintered and put out on the grass next year, cattle up to two years of age which might be finished during the winter and heifers and cows up to five years of age which might be used as breeder stock outside the drought area.

Applications had come to Mr. Gardiner from Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and the Ottawa valley for cattle from the western fields.

Following are the conditions of the new freight policy:

On carload shipments of feeder cattle and feeder lambs purchased at country points anywhere in prescribed drought areas in Saskatchewan and Alberta, and shipped to country points outside these areas in any province in the Dominion, a refund of 50 per cent. of the actual freight charges on the shipment will be allowed if the farmer is still feeding them at end of three months two months for lambs.

This assistance will be allowed only on shipments made prior to November 30, 1936, and will be retroactive on any shipments made since August 1, 1936, complying with the conditions.

In the case of cattle, the concession will be allowed only on steers or heifers two years of age and under, except that in the case of female cattle of dairy breeds the age limit will be five years.

To obtain the concession, each car of yearling cattle must contain at least 35 head, and in the case of older cattle at least 25 head. Allowance within these ranges may be made in the case of shipments consisting of both yearlings and older cattle.

To obtain the concession, lambs must be loaded in doubledeck cars, each car containing at least 275 head, all born within 1936.

The concessions will not apply on feed supplies, or on the docking, or on other charges against the shipment which may be included in the freight bill.

EMPIRE TRADE TALKS HAVE BEEN OF GREAT VALUE

Toronto.—Recent trade talks between British and Canadian cabinet ministers "proved invaluable in creating an understanding of each other's position which must be the preliminary to sound mutually advantageous agreements," Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, Dominion's secretary in the British cabinet, declared in an address by trans-Atlantic telephone as he opened the British trade section at the Canadian National exhibition.

To a distinguished gathering in the governments' building in the exhibition grounds, the son of Ramsay MacDonald spoke of inter-imperial trade after he illuminated the building by depressing a cable key in the British general post office, London, on the eve of the exhibition opening.

Development of mutual trade between the United Kingdom and Canada "is a matter of importance to both as a contribution towards securing employment and maintaining a good standard of life for the people in each land," Mr. MacDonald said.

"Inter-imperial trade should be two-way traffic," he continued. "It was with this object before us that after the Ottawa conference we guaranteed duty-free entry into our market of Canadian goods which under our new fiscal revolution would have become dutiable. We hoped that the contribution toward increased prosperity would result in a large increase in sales between our two countries and this hope has been realized. We confidently believe you are ready to give our producers fair opportunity to compete in your market."

"In recent weeks some of my colleagues and I have been engaged in discussions with Canadian ministers in London. We were taking stock together of the results of the Ottawa agreement, and considering many important questions concerning future trade between our countries. The government of Great Britain welcomed the presence of Mr. Dunning (Hon. Charles Dunning, Dominion minister of finance) and his colleagues. Our talks together proved invaluable in creating an understanding of each other's position which must be preliminary to sound, mutually advantageous agreements. The results of the discussions are now being considered by our governments, and I hope that the ultimate outcome may be fruitful to both peoples."

Funds Have Been Restored

Members Of Church Of England Thanked For Co-operation

Winnipeg.—Lost endowments of the Church of England diocese of Rupert's Land, originally estimated at $758,641, have been restored in full to the revived sum of $774,070, it was announced here following sessions of church representatives held to discuss details of the restoration campaign.

In a resolution moved by His Grace Archbishop Hardinge of Rupert's Land, the gathering expressed deep gratitude to the members of the Church of England in Canada who, by their work, gifts and intercessions, had contributed their individual shares to restoring the fund.

The resolution was seconded by J. McWhinney, treasurer of the fund. Value of securities which remained in possession of the church is still to be adjusted and the question will be placed before the meeting of the executive of the general synod to be held next month in Toronto.

Many Children Enrolled

18,000 Are Now Attending Indian Schools In Canada

Ottawa.—Indian schools in Canada have enrolled 18,000 children, it was announced by Hon. T. A. Crerar, superintendent general of Indian affairs. Of this number 8,900 are in residential schools.

Two of the most recently erected buildings of the residential school system are those at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Lebert, Sask. These, like other schools under the department of Indian affairs, are operated in co-operation with the various church authorities engaged in Indian work.
